The President expressed his pleasure for the opportunity of visiting the historic city, and added: "I rejoice that you have so great a commonwealth; the great industrial capabilities which you have, the beneficial climate that spreads over much of your vast territory, the great variety of productions which your soil and climate render possible give promise for a future of prominence among the great States of the Union that seems to me can scarcely fail to bring Texas to the front rank. Trouble in Mashonaland.

Cable and Associated Press.

LONDON, April 20.—Dispatches received here from South Africa show the Portuguese authorities have taken a high hand in Mashonaland. By the latest report their hostility to British interests in that district is likely to cause a further tension in the relation between the government of Great Britain and Portugal. A number of President's Party at British colonists settled in Mashonaland and the mails destined to them are carried by way of Biera, a Portuguese settlement. On the arrival of the British mails at Beira, the Portuguese authorities held them and re-fused to allow them to be carried to their destination. Great indignation on the part of the British colonists is

The officials refused to accept this payment, and ordering the British flag down, hoisted the Portuguese flag in its place. The Portugues declare the British are excluded from the Pengile river, which the boats were navigating when seized and which is the chief water route to Mashonaland. Several British colonists have been imprisoned and most of the British settlers have returned from Mashonaland on account of the arbiimpending between the Portugues

The President's Trip.

It is most gratifying to notice the unvarying courtesy which the people of the South are extending to the President of the United States and his party on their Western journey. They do not vote the Republican ticket down there very well, but when they come out with their local military, their brass bands and Sunday school Sunday, and to keep abreast of the male contains a sunday, and to keep abreast of the male contains a sunday, and to keep abreast of the male contains a sunday, and to keep abreast of the male contains a sunday, and to keep abreast of the male contains a sunday, and to keep abreast of the sunday are sunday. the Republican ticket down there brass bands and Sunday school children carrying flags, it is a sign that the South has returned to the hospitality for which she was famous through all the years up to 1861. It is true they gave the President a very warm reception down there some twenty-eight years ago, but the Sunday school children did not take part in it, and the military companies did not evince exactly the same spirit that they are evincing now, although it brass bands and Sunday school they are evincing now, although it was quite as warm. And the President is showing off well. There is no question but what he can make a good platform speech from the rear end of a car. He is not as big a man physically as is ex-President if t'ey had appeared in the mouth of a Cleveland, but he can make better excursion speeches and the effect sol, for these brown-skinned Fiji maids excursion speeches, and the effect of the journey ought to be good.

Coming from the restraints and conventionalities of civilization, a correndent at Suva, Fiji, writes to the New York Times, one almost envies the freedom and naturalness of life which prevail in Fiji. The Fijian women are distinguished for their chastity and de-votion to their families. Many of them are exceedingly pretty, and although, like the women of most races which live in warm climates and upon a nearly exclusive vegetable diet, they incline to corpulency as they approach middle life, they are in youth very graceful and symmetrical, and by their lively and cheerful manners make a most agree-able impression upon the visitor. The young girls are full of fun, and the best ooking among them are as finished co-uettes as are produced in Paris, Lonon or New York.

It needs no education to make a woman understand that she is attractive above her fellows, so here in Fiji I have seen many young ladies who showed as many airs in a garb consist-ing simply of a belt with a thick fringe of dyed cocoanut-fiber falling half way to her knees as a white belle would parade in one of Worth's latest ball

> The National Motto. The national motto, "E pluribus Unum," on different United States coins, was never authorized by law to any of the provisions of the act estab-lishing it. None of the coins since 1837 bore the motto until the standard silver dollars were coined. It remained on the early gold and silver coins until 1834, when it was omitted from the gold coins; from the double eagle in 1866.

> > The President's Flag.

About the year 1818 a proposition was made to have a national standard, or esident's flag, to be hoisted over the president's flag, to be hoisted over the halls of congress, at the navy yards and arsenals, and at other public places vis-ited by the president. Although the design had upon it all the features representing the nation, it was not adopted. The idea of such a flag was rejected, upon the idea that it pertained too much to the customs of monarchical nations. A president's flag has, however, since been adopted, to signify Senator should attend to his du-ties, and if I cannot remain in Washington constantly I prefer to blue, with the United States coat-of-

Some three months ago I was taken very sick with a severe pain in the small of my back over the kidneys. The pain was excruciating. I applied an Allcock's Porous Plaster over the affected region and had relief almost within an hour. At the ne time.in conjunction with this trouble I had very great nervous disturbance, affecting my legs with cramps so I could scarcely sleep. Meeting with such success with my back I applied a plaster under the knee of each leg, and in three days was completely cured, and have never been troubled in either way since.

THE HOTEL COOKS.

Past and Present Compared by a

Slap-jack Expert. 'Cookery isn't as good as it used to be in the days of the Mississippi packet lines of steamboats" said a boarder at a down town hotel, as he puffed at his after dinner cigar. "Oh, bother" said the landlord, "you make me tired. Cookery is just as good now as it ever was. It's your poor teeth and bad digestion, that's what's the matter with you."

"Well, perhaps that's so," said the boarder. "I was a boy then, but the steamboat tables on the old "Sultana" and "Jacob Strader" and "Northern Light" and "Eclipse," in the old slavery days, with a colored crew of good cooks and waiters, were spread with food that I had a better relish for than any since that time; the change for the worse came when the Chinese in California crowded out the old line cooks, and its been getting worse ever

THE EARLY HOTELS IN

California set good food on their tables The variety wasn't extensive, but every bit of food tasted well, because every bit of food tasted well, because it was well seasoned and well flavored. Even fried sausage had sage and seasoning; steaks and chops were served in their own juices; the baked beans possessed a flavor that only skill and attention in cooking will impart, and even a dried apple pie had cinnamon and spice that gave it a superior tone." And the old boarder having aired his appreciation of good cookery, at the expense of exposing his ignorance. expense of exposing his ignorance, droned out his discontent as he reviewed the stages of retrogression in the art of cooking, to a fellow boarder, who was in arrears and didn't dare say anything. The landlord left in disgust, muttering something about the d—d old cranks that ought to get married and move out of the hotels. But it didn't effect the old pioneer who paid as he went and had faith in his own judgment. "I left Sacramento in 1863" said he, "and the

GOOD PARE OF THE GOLDEN EAGLE. Under Dan Callahan's management, and started for Nevada before the China cooks got over here. At Placerville we had a good dinner at the Carey House, and riding all night, had our next meal, breakfast, at the old Muller House, kept by George Tufly in Carson. The difference in the price and quality was very pronounced, because of the absence of vegetables, but it was pretty good for the frontier, and we were consoled with the remark that we might go further and fare worse. A late lunch further and fare worse. A late lunch in Virginia City that day was not tempting, but we attributed that to the excitement of securing passage on the crowded stage on east to Reese river. Late in the evening we had supper at Stillwater and got the first taste of overland fare, consisting of jack-rabbit stew, with yeast-powder dumplings, boiled hominey, dried ap-ples stewed, doughouts and black coffee with brown sugar. And yet it was a well-cooked meal, and there was a savory odor in the dining room that inspired a relish and aroused an appe-tite.

AN ALL-NIGHT RIDE

Renewed the appetite for breakfast at the next station, where the overland stew was made from pretty tough beef, but it was palatable, and the boiled hominey had salt and butter in it; the coffee was good and the bread was home-made biscuit right out of the oven. Late in the afternoon we had supper at the old Westgate station, and while hominy and stew were the leading dishes, all on the table was Chinaman in the kitchen. Breakfast at Jacob Wells' in the Reese river valley and lunch in Austin ended our overland fare, and with it camp life commenced on a trout stream in the Toiyabe mountains. Our own cookery wasn't a success at first, but it resulted in teaching the absurdity of expecting a Chinaman, with a sense of taste perverted through the lifetime of the oldest nation in existence, to ever acquire skill in American cookery, and I contend that he never can." And the skill in American cookery, and I con-tend that he never can." And the old boarder got up and walked off, clicking his porcelain teeth, while the landlord said "Rats."

DEEP CREEK MINES.

Front Again: Rich Mines.

The Salt Lake Tribune of the 17th instant says: "Deep Creek was the talk yesterday in many circles. Every fresh arrival from there adds a new interest in the country and everybody seems eager to hear the latest news from that El Dorado."

From all reports that come it seems that the mines are rich in silver, be sides carrying a heavy per cent of lead, and the deposits are so extensive as to insure a long season of prosper-ity when once opened and provided with railway transportation for the low grade ores that exist in abundance. It is evident from the signs new pre-sented that the eastern border of Nevada is on the eve of a prosperous awakening. The Tribune contains reports from a number of prospectors just in from the mines, and the reports fully confirm the previous ones. The Buckhorn mine, owned by Sam Gilson, is evidently the King Bee of all yet found, and a late strike of ore gives assays of 4,500 ounces of silver-per ten. The reads from Salt Lake per ton. The roads from Salt Lake are reported very bad and water very scarce, and at this distance it looks as if the quickest and easiest way of reaching the Deep Creek mining sec-tion would be from Cherry Creek and Schellbourn Schellbourn. The above paper of the 18th inst. chronicles the arrival of Sam Gilson with another carload of rich ore from the Buckhorn mine at Dugway, and says just before he left the mine they struck ore that assayed 13,050 ounces silver and 25½ ounces gold to the ton.

The excitement about the Deep Creek mines is increasing.

This Great Play To Be Presented

Bronson Howard's greatest triumph 'Shenandoah," which will be presented at the Opera House on the night of April 25th, and which is regarded as one of the chief dramatic events of the season, will be brought direct from New York City, where for months it was played to crowded houses. "Shenandoah" is the first work from the pen of Bronson How-ard since he wrote "The Henrietta" and it is said in this work he has achieved the triumph of his career. The comedy element is said to be the strongest feature of the play, although there are many pathetic scenes. The action of the play is laid in Charleston, Shenandoah Valley, Washington. The contesting parties are represented by two, a man and a women who are in love, a man and a women who are in love, a young Northern West Point graduate, who became a Colonel in the Shenandoah campaign, and a young Southern girl. The solitary villain of the drama is a villain by nature and a Confederate by choice The war has nothing to do with his hatred of the Northern officer. It will be noticed by a close observer that a goodly number of residents of Nevada, from Carson, Empire, Virginia City, Reno and other places are being called to San Francisco on business or pleasure just at this time. It is taken as an indication of prosperous times to note our people travelling, but whether the appearance of the divine Sara at the Baldwin next Friday has any influence on their movements the Gazerre re-porter was unable to learn.

Severe Loss

The Inyo Independent says: The dwelling at Camp Independence owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James Malone was totally destroyed by fire on Tuesday afternoon. The inmates of the dwelling had gone out into an adjoining field at noon, leaving a fire burning in the stove. When they returned to the building the es had gained such headway that it was impossible to stay them or rescue anything from the house.

Salt Water Salmon.

The Times-Review of Tuscarora of Friday last says: Gus Peterson came in from down the Owyhee yesterday with a load of salmon, which he disposed of readily at $1 each.

It seems a little odd that away off in the northeast corner of the State salt water fish are caught out of the mountain streams, but the headwaters of the Owyhee are the spawning ground for the salmon that pass the fish wheels on the Columbia.

ested, began a series of investigations, and in a subsequent letter candidly admitted its curative properties, and says:

Wishing to test its virtues further, I used it in my own family, and prescribed it for patients who required a general system regulator. As a result, I can say it is an almost absolute cure for constipation, bliousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, and sick headaches. These troubles usually come from a disturbed condition of the stomach and bowels, and Joy's Veretable Sarsaparilla is the best laxative and stomach regulator I have ever seen, and as a general system corrective is almost perfection.

Æsop has told us the tale of a mule which, from overfeeding, galloped about and felt gay, saying to himself: "My father, surely, was a high-mettled racer, and I am his own child in speed and spirit." Next day he was sick and weary; he then exclaimed: "I must have made a mistake: my father, after all, could have been only an as." A man, after eating a good dinner, may feel extrawagantly joyons; but next day (I don't mean you to infer he feels like an ass) he is surly and grim, his stomach and liver are sluggish, he is morose, despondent: and "out of sorts" generally. For Indigestion, Billiousness and all derangements of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is an unequaled Remedy. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to ferment and derange the digestive processes. It cleanses the system and cures pimples, biotches, eruptions and all Skin and Scalp Discases. Scrofulous affections, as Fever-sores, Hipjoint Discase, Swellings and Tumors, yield to its superior alterative properties.

AFRICAN HAIR DRESSING. It Is Often Very Elaborate, involving Much Time in the Work.

A limited wardrobe, such as befits the climate, may in a brief manner be stated as the general characteristic of African dress, says Peoples of the World. What little they wear is, however, in many cases peculiar enough to merit a few words, and is sometimes combined with an extraordinary furor for improving on nature by disturbing their otherwise not particularly handsome countenances. Among the Manganjas, for example, it is the head upon which the greatest elaboration is be-stowed. The most favorite form of dressing the hair is to take a couple of pieces of wet, pliable hide, and shape them into the form of ox or buffalo horns, after which they are allowed to dry. They are then fastened to each side of the forehead and the hair trained over them and plastered into position by means of grease and clay. Two horns are the favorite ornament, but sometimes only one is used; in the latter case the wearer looks like a black bipedal unicorn. Others vary this style of hair-dressing by twisting up a number of locks all ver the head into the shape of miniature horns, so as to cause a porcupine-like appearance in the practicer of this extraordinary style of head dress. Pigtails, so far as their short "wool" will allow, are also in vogue among some of this tribe. The women, as might be expected, are also by no means without fastidiousness in dressing and ornament ing their hair, but this is quite overshadowed by another effort at beautifying in which they excel, namely, in wearing the "pelele" or ring of ivory, metal, or bamboo, which is of considerable size, in their upper lip, the orifice for its reception being gradually en-larged from early girlhood until it can receive the full-sized ring, which, among the Mangania belles, constitutes the acme of female loveliness made perfect. The wearing of this hideous ornament alters the whole appearance of the face and renders it impossible for the women to pronounce the labial letters. Hence woman in this tribe speaks differently from the men. Some of the women even tattoo, but owing to the darkness of their skin this mode of decoration cannot get shown to advantage and is not very popular. It is not pleasant to record of a nation so fond of dress that they seemed to be entirely unconscious that in civilized eyes cleanliness is a virtue which ranks even higher than tattooing. They are filthy in the extreme. One old man denied that it was true that he had ever washed himself; he had really done so once, but it was so long ago that he could not trust his memory to say how many years had elapse since that notable event. It is almost superfluous to add that skin diseases are, in consequence common among them and exhibit most persistent and virulent forms.

THE INDIAN'S MUSTANG.

Horses Were Introduced in America by the Spaniards and Some Escaped. The Indian horses of the mountain and plains tribes were originally of that wild stock once found in vast, herds all over the intracontinent region, and which had their beginning from those that strayed from the Spaniards in old Mexico, as there were no animals of that character on the continent until the Spanish conquest, if we except an extinct species found only as a fossil on the plains of Kansas. These were geological specimens long before the advent of the Indian, and of such a remote age as to bewilder the mind in its contemplation.

Even until the middle of the eighteenth century the Indians of the country east of the Mississippi used to It is a sure cure for SCAB when laugh at the white man, who could not walk but must ride a horse. The Indian thought nothing of keeping up a "dog trot" all day, making his fifty and sixty miles during that time.

The wild horses of the American coninent once roamed from the border of old Mexico as far north as Lake Winnipeg, says a writer in the Kansas City Star. Twenty-three years ago there were a great many wandering over the broad, grassy bottoms of the Cimarron, in southwestern Kansas; perhaps they are not all extinct yet. All the wild horses that I have ever seen were of a small stature—pony built in every instance—but possessing a won-derful amount of endurance; a tough, hardy animal, will fitted to perform the peculiar duties the Indians demanded of him. The savages are very hard on their animals, and unless their horses were constituted to "live on cactus and drink the green slime of the buffalo wallows" they would have become ex-tinct probably long ago. When caught young they are easily broken, but if taken at an advanced age they are perfectly incorrigible.

I remember one that used to do duty on the old stage line between Ellsworth and Sterling, about seventeen years ago. He was the most vicious orute it has ever been my fortune to see. Whenever it became necessary to shoe him he had to be knocked down with an ax, and before he recovered his senses tied, and only in that condition would the blacksmith dare approach nim. His endurance was something marvelous; his driver, the only man that could do anything with him at all, tried for years to wear him out, but without success, and he succumbed at last only to old age. I have ridden behind him many a time, but in momentary expectation of having my brains kicked out or dashed to pieces whenever he started down hill. His bones lie bleaching somewhere on the divide between the Smoky Hill and the Ar-

In Bombay, as in Lancashire, "Cotton is king," says the Pail Mall Cazette. The boats plying in the harvor, the wharves of the splendid docks, the picturesque bullock-carts, that throng the streets, are all "cotton." After New Orleans Bombay is the greatest cotton port in the world. Four million cwt. are-shipped abroad every year, and 3,000,000 more are spun and woven in the eighty-two mills of the Bombay presidency. The value of all this cotton Cotton in Bombay. presidency. The value of all this cotto is about £12.000,000. The old Cotto green, a vast space devoted to dealer in the raw material, is one of the sho places of the city, and forms a striking picture of busy native life.

The poetess did not happen to be at home when the letter came, but her husband was, and, as is his custom, he opened the letter upon seeing the magazine imprint upon the envelope.
